

POEM

M. D. Hughes

The tide recedes
but leaves behind
bright seashells on the sand.
The sun goes down,
but gentle warmth
still lingers on the land.
The music stops,
And yet it echoes on
in sweet refrains..
For ever joy that passes,
something beautiful remains.